THE J. E. JONES LETTER

WILL SEEK THE HIGH HILLS

Calvin Coolidge is going back to his mountains for his Summer vacation because he likes the higher altitudes better than the seashore. The Summer home of the President of the United States used to involve many entangling problems, but it doesn't seem to matter very much now so far as the public is concerned where the Presidential family hangs up its hats. A radio message, or communication by telephone, or by telegraph, is instantaneous, and where transportation is needed in a hurry, the airplane will do it.

POTASH

Government reports show a crying need for domestic potash, and a report upon the subject has been issued by the United States Department of Commerce. Some progress was made along this line during and after the war. The opportunities for producing potash are very great in the commercial market, and any section of the country that has agricultural conditions so that potash can be obtained will find it advantageous to increase development to the limit.

THE COLORADO RIVER PROJECT

For a good many years there have been attempts to create a development of the lower Colorado River. The undertakings provide for flood control, irrigation, electrical development, and the putting in motion of the forces of the Colorado in a way intended to change the entire economic aspect of the Southwest. Several States have been attempts to create a development, but they are not agreed regarding all its details. Out of the maze of problems involved is that of placing the Federal reclamation system on a business basis. The Department of the Interior has been engaged in that task for two or three years. Its methods have been roundly and severely criticized by many people, as unprogressive. Now comes Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to protest against the Government's financing the construction of the proposed gigantic dam on the Colorado River and an irrigation canal in the Imperial and Coachella valleys in California, involving the so-called Boulder Dam project and the question of its armament or private capital. It is estimated that these projects will cost $125,000,000. In order to raise the money a plan has been presented to Congress for the sale of United States bonds. Mr. Mellon raises all the objections to the scheme familiar in discussions of public ownership problems. On the other hand an empire of wealth has had almost dormant in every stage of the game to object to the participation of the Federal, or the State governments, in the financing that is necessary to produce economic expansion. This expansion seems so perfectly natural to the Southwest that one wonders why the thing wasn't done a quarter of a century ago.

WAS WILLIAMS DRUNK?

The Secretary of the Navy has recognized the charges made by General Bradley Butler and will court-martial Colonel Alexander Williams, to find out whether the latter was intoxicated while on the Government reservation at San Diego, California. Thus there will be brought to issue a case to determine Mr. Williams and public officials, who can get drunk and get away with it, because "no gentleman" wants to make a complaint.

LANE'S DREAM

When the Nation was indulging in the pleasant hysteria of war, with every one running about with a chip on his shoulder, Franklin K. Lane, who was Secretary of the Interior at the time, stepped to the front of the stage and delivered himself of a plan. In substance Lane asked that Congress make provision for the reclamation of the Colorado River basin, and he pointed out that tens of thousands of homes could be provided for returning soldiers.

SENIOR BOYS NOSE OUT SOPHOMORES IN GYM.

NASTIC MEET

The Seniors won the inter-class gymnastic meet over the Sophomores by a close margin. The Juniors finished third and the Freshmen, who suffered by the ineligibility rule, were last. The Sophomores easily proved their superiority in the team number by the unity and form in their Dumb-Bell Drill. The Seniors, however, excelled in the apparatus work by a small number of points. The Summary:

| Event           | 1925  | 1927  | 1928  | 1929  |
|-----------------|-------|-------|-------|-------|
| Parallel Bars   | 174.5 | 163.6 | 172.8 | 161.8 |
| Bars            | 134.2 | 122.3 | 123.0 | 119.7 |
| Back            | 17.7  | 15.5  | 17.2  | 15.1  |
| Team Number, 85 | 82.5  | 90.   | 70.   |       |

Total, 411.4 354.9 403.0 396.6. E. Stevens, of the Senior Class, was the high scorer, but he was followed very closely by Parsons, of the Junior Class.

The result of the Gymnastic Meet puts the Sophomores in second place and Juniors back in third place in the running for the Inter-Class Championship Banner.

The work of John Adams and Frank Keniston in leading their respective Team Numbers was praiseworthy.

The boys are now practicing and looking forward to the Indoor Inter-Class Track Meet, which is scheduled for Friday, April 9. A large loving cup is the trophy for the winning class.

SONS OF VETERANS

Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War is the new name adopted by the Sons of Veterans at their last annual Encampment held in Grand Rapids last September. This was done at the suggestion of the Grand Army of the Republic so as to designate clearly who the Sons of Veterans are.

Eligibility to the Sons of Union Veterans is based on being a direct descendant of an honorably discharged Soldier, Sailor or Marine of the War of '61-'65, either by maternal or paternal descent and being over sixteen years of age. The eligibility of this Order is quite limited and it has been such that an eligible had to live in the vicinity of an organized Camp to belong and in this state there are hundreds of towns too small to be able to have a Camp. To correct this, Division Commander Albert B. De Haven of Sanford, Me., has secured permission from National Headquarters to institute a State Camp. This Camp would take in any eligible, of honorable character, regardless of where he lived in the state. This will give hundreds of eligibles in the state a chance to belong to this organization, carrying on the work of this organization in the vicinity in which the member lives. Any person of the above eligibility will do well to write to Commander De Haven.

This younger order is gradually taking over the work formerly performed by their fathers. They seek out every grave of a Veteran, map out and keep a permanent record of each and see that it is decorated each year. They also carry on the principles and objects taught them by their fathers. You will find the most honest patriotic heart to the United States of America.

On June 9th and 10th, the Department of Maine Grand Army of the Republic, The Sons of Union Veterans and allied Auxiliaries will hold their Encampments in the city of Portland. Great plans are being prepared to make these the best yet held. The future Encampments of the Veterans are very limited as the average age of these Veterans is 83 years.

Repa & Fox are making extensive repairs on their store on Main Street. The inside of the store will be thoroughly renovated. The entrance is to be changed from the front to the Spring Street side of the building. Three large plate glass windows will be put in the front and other improvements made.

MRS. ELLA CLOUGH CARTER

In young manhood he went to Boston where he worked for about 27 years. He returned to Gilead in 1870 to care for his father and mother and has since resided on the home farm.

He is survived by three brothers, Geo. of South Paris, Percy of Bridgton, Charles of Boston, and one sister, Emma of Boston.

Young vigor to old folks

"For years I could not enjoy food or sleep. Stomach pains kept me miserable. Despaired of improvement till I tried Tanlac. Now, at 71, I eat and sleep well and enjoy life again." Mrs. Ellen White, 21 Sanger Street, New Hartford, N. Y.

One of Tanlac's greatest blessings is the new life and vigor it brings to old folks. Every day men and women up in the twenties and thirties thank us for Tanlac's wonderful benefits.

Tanlac is a natural tonic, made from roots, barks and rare herbs. Harmless to man or child. It cleans the blood, stirs up the liver and puts digestive organs in working order.

If your body is weak and run-down, if you lack ambition, can't eat or sleep, you'll be delighted with Tanlac's results. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

RADIO

A Simplified Three-Tube Circuit Designed for Ease of Construction, Operation and Superb Tonal Quality. Honeycomb Coils Used for Tuning.

By BRAINARD FOOTE
in Radio World.

Listeners who prefer moderate volume, combined with almost perfect reproduction, will be interested in the simple entertainment receiver to be described. The faultlessness of its tone output is dependent upon the system of audio frequency amplification, which, in this set, is a combination of a stage of impedance-coupled amplification and a stage of resistance-coupled amplification.

In addition, the use of the half-ampere power tube is considered in the last stage. Since this tube requires about 135 volts of "B" battery, the use of resistance coupling calls for no additional plate voltage. Impedance coupling is adopted for the first stage since this provides superior detector action and greater detector output. Moreover, with a good impedance coil for the first stage, the quality is good. A honeycomb system of tuning is shown, with a primary coil made unnecessary by the expedient of employing a small fixed condenser as the coupling medium. Thus the assembly of the outfit is not difficult. The output of volume is not so great as can be obtained by the use of more tubes and more audio amplification, but on this very account its tone qualities are better and its operation more pleasing.

Will Operate Loud Speaker.
A receiver of this character will operate a good loud speaker, either of the horn or cone type, to advantage. In the symbolic diagram (Fig. 1) the coupling condenser whereby the antenna is delivered to the set, L1 and C1 form the tuned circuit of the set, L1 being a 50-turn honeycomb coil and C1 a .0005 mfd. variable condenser. Regeneration is handled by the "shunt" plate circuit, L2 and C2 being another 50-turn coil and C2 another .0005 mfd. variable condenser. The two coils are mounted by means of two honeycomb coil mounts. They should be as far apart as possible, so long as sufficient regeneration is to be had on the longest waves.

C1 forms the combination grid and leak and condenser, a .00025 mfd. condenser and 2 megohm leak. T1 and T2 are two 6A type tubes, whereas T3 is a power tube of the 112 type, taking 14 amperes at 5 volts. L3 is the coupling impedance for the first stage. It may be a special impedance coil made for the purpose, or, with as good results, the secondary winding of a large-sized audio transformer. This stipulation is made to insure the use of an impedance coil having enough turns of wire and core iron to pass all the audio frequencies.

C3 is the coupling condenser for the first stage. A condenser as small as .002 mfd. will answer fairly well here, but better results are obtained both as to volume and range of musical tones if the condenser is made at .01 mfd. or even up to 0.5 mfd. A grid leak resistance R1 of 1 megohm or 1/2 megohm is required to properly bias the grid of tube T2 and to prevent it from becoming choked with negative impulses. Instead of the impedance just described, a coupling resistance is adopted for the second stage, since this is even better than an impedance when it comes to passing all the musical frequencies.

Power Stage.
Resistance R2 should be approximately 100,000 ohms (0.1 megohm). Such resistances can be purchased in the form of an ordinary grid leak and all the essential resistances may be snapped into regular resistance clip-holders. These holders, which come made in order that the heating effect of the "B" battery current that must pass through them may not alter its resistance and cause noises or distortion. Condenser C3 is just like C1. The grid leak R3 should have a resistance of about 1/2 megohm (250,000 ohms) to properly bias the last tube and prevent overloading or choking.

Tube T3 is a 1/2 ampere power tube, used because its greater power will result in somewhat greater volume of output and a very marked gain in tone quality, since overloading is eliminated. A Jack is provided for the loud speaker connection, the loud speaker being indicated at this point.

Now for a few remarks about the battery and filament circuits. Rheostat R4 takes care of lighting the detector and first stage tubes T1 and T2, while rheostat R5 handles the power tube. A snap switch S, located at the left end of the panel, serves to turn the set on and off. This rheostat may be maintained at the proper points permanently.

A 4 1/2 volt "C" battery is employed, as indicated. Three 45-volt "B" units are required.

The beginnings of radio may be traced back to the scientific work of James Clerk Maxwell, the celebrated British physicist. Maxwell was born at Edinburgh, Scotland, and conducted his brilliant researches at a comparatively young age, dying at Cambridge, England, when but forty-eight years old.

He believed that light was due to waves in an invisible medium which scientists call "ether." He believed, further, that light was some kind of electromagnetic phenomenon. It was these ideas of Maxwell's that led Hertz later to the discoveries that made radio possible.

Hints on How to Adjust Your Regenerative Set:
If the set accidentally breaks into oscillation, turn back the regeneration control at once.

For both hands, one hand for the regeneration control and the other hand for the tuning control.

Practice on tuning powerful stations first and do not try to pick up weak, distant stations until becoming expert.

Do not force regeneration in an attempt to obtain loud speaker volume from a set not designed for the purpose.

Never force regeneration in an attempt to hear stations beyond the range of the set; be content with those that can be heard.

Keep the regeneration control at ways just below the point of oscillation; the set is then in the most sensitive condition. This is the way for using two hands for tuning.

Do not try to find a station by the whistle. If the set is tuned just below the whistling point, the signals will come in clear and the regeneration control can then be turned a little further to increase the volume.

Charm Plays Important Part in Real Estate

In nothing outside of art does the intangible element known as charm play so important a part as in real estate. The home-buyer is usually a very undecided and bewildered sort of person. He has a vague idea of what he wants, but can't quite find it. He is shown dozens of houses for sale. The price counts within his range. That is, say he will pay from $6,000 to $8,000 for a five-room house. Inside of that range the one thing that counts most with him is not the cost of the house, but whether or not he wants it.

Now that is where charm comes in. If the outlook is pleasant, the house convenient, and it has some beauty that makes him want it—the sale is made on your terms. If he does not quite want it, the price must be cut five hundred or a thousand dollars, to make the cheapness overcome his reluctance.

It is surprising how few builders realize the great commercial value of beauty and good taste. I can take two houses exactly alike, side by side. The least expensive thing about a simple little house is the walls. It costs perhaps, for five rooms, less than $75. I can tint the rooms in one of these houses a drab, depressing color; the other a bright, pleasant shade. The bright one will sell for $500 more than the other—and sell much sooner.

Almost the entire secret in investing in city property is: Select a location that is growing better, and buy something that has charm.—William H. Wamby, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Not All Workers Want Homes Near Factory
There is no demand from modern workmen to have their homes within sound of the factory's whistle and within sight of its smokestacks, according to the executives of the Home Builders' and Subdividers' division. And it is by no means necessary or advisable to preempt for working-men's homes areas that because of truckage facilities or other reasons are going some day to be needed by the city for industrial sites.

"Where his wife's card club is located is a great deal more important to a foundryman or machinist than where his work happens to be," the home building specialists agree.

Action of the regional planning commission of Los Angeles is cited by the committee as a typical instance of a city's recognition of the advisability in some cases of giving an industrial use precedence over use for housing.

The commission is now excluding homes from certain districts in the city, because truckage facilities there need to be conserved for future industrial development.

Cites Zoning Benefits
Zoning is reflected in reasonable phone rates, gas and electric prices and in street car fares, Chairman Marshall of the board of zoning appeals declared in a speech before the Baltimore real estate board.

Mr. Marshall explained that the number of houses in new developments and the price of their construction regulates the number of inhabitants and enables public service corporations to forecast in advance improvements they must supply in the section concerned.

"The ability of the public service corporations to give service without large emergency expenses will result in lower costs to the consumer," Mr. Marshall said. "We in Baltimore should be allowed to pass legislation that will protect the public from a small minority."

Good Work Encouraged
The committee on craftsmanship awards of the Philadelphia Building Congress has awarded certificates to 12 goldsmiths, jewelers and 7 builders and subcontractors.

The object of the Philadelphia Building Congress is to encourage and preserve to Philadelphia and the metropolitan area the spirit of craftsmanship and to give recognition to those whose skill, patience and toil have built well in the community.

Advertise Home Town
"Every county in south Georgia," says the Tifton Gazette, "ought to have an advertising fund and spend it judiciously during the year 1931 to attract more farmers, transients, investors and home-sellers to this section. We have the advantages, but must not wait for people to come here to find them out."

Who Owns the Homes?
Half the dwellings in the United States are owned by men whose income is less than $2,000 a year. These figures are based on research work by building and loan associations. They say few new are financially unable to buy a home.

Urge House Insulation
Build your house like a fortress. Insulate it against heat and cold and you will have perfect year-round comfort.

WOMEN FIGHT POWERFUL FOE

Struggle Against Ill Health Find a Faithful Ally in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. ADOLPH HANSEN

Could Work Only Two Hours
Eucanto, Calif.—"I bless the day I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so weak and tired all the time I could not work more than two hours each day, then had to go to bed for the rest of the day. I read so much about the Vegetable Compound and I was so weak that I decided to try it. I now do my own housework—washing, scrubbing, and ironing—and then help my husband with his garden. I do not have that worn-out feeling now. I advise every woman to give your wonderful medicine a trial, and I will answer any letters I receive from women asking about it.—Mrs. Emma Lax, 700 Jamaica Road, Eucanto, Calif.

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling battles to clear her on, no warring banners.

If you are fighting this battle, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound be your ally, too.

Elderly Picture Actress
Hollywood's most ambitious "extra" is Mary Holden. She is Mary Holden, born in Rutland, Vt. Every day she appears at casting offices looking for "odd bits" in motion picture and more often than not she obtains employment. "I never thought about acting until I was eighty," she declared. "Now I think it is wonderful. I want to play in 100 pictures before I die. I will never be too old to get parts. In my case, the older I am, the better."

Some people are proud of their humility.—Beecher.

Everson Delano Berry, an aged and respected citizen of Canton, passed suddenly away Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ora J. Dodge, after being in poor health for some time. He was born in Buckfield, January 6, 1833, the son of Peter and Jane Carlton Berry. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Jane Keene of North Turner. Three children survive from this union, Cassius Berry and Mrs. Flora Dodge of Canton and Francis Berry of North Livermore. For his second wife he married Sarah Pease of Auburn who passed away a few years ago. Besides his children he is survived by eight grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and one great great-grandchild. The funeral was held at one o'clock.

Mrs. Agnes M. Hathaway, who has been a missionary in Japan for the past twenty years and recently returned, spoke at the Universalist church Wednesday evening to a good sized audience. Miss Hathaway is a very interesting speaker, as well as having a pleasing personality, and her talk on Japan and her experiences in that country was much enjoyed by all present.

A meeting of the Farm Bureau was held Friday at Community Hall. The subject of the meeting was one of the most important, Miss Gladys Page was present and assisted in the cutting and making of four dresses.

OH! MY BACK!

Aching Backs Make Life Miserable For Many Bethel People

It isn't right to suffer day in and day out with dull, unceasing backache. Or be utterly miserable with sharp spasms of pain whenever you stoop or lift. But chances are you will suffer these tormenting aches and pains as long as your weakened kidneys are neglected. You may have headaches, too, spells of dizziness and urinary disorders. Then use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Experience of Bethel people prove the merit of Doan's.

Mrs. A. B. Farwell, 49 Church St., Bethel, says: "I had to stand long hours and the strain on my back and kidneys soon caused trouble. There was a dull, heavy ache across my back and mornings my back felt so lame and stiff, I could hardly stoop. Whenever I tried to sweep or dust, knife-like pains flashed through my kidneys. I used Doan's Pills, from Dr. Cassman's Drug Store, and they did me the trick." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Farwell had.
